

~~Tom's~~ Carnac's Message Board

My Predictions for 2011.

Remember Johnny Carson? He WAS late night television for so many years. As soothsayer Carnac the Magnificent he'd hold a sealed envelope to his head to telepathically answer the question written within. Upon opening the envelope and reading the question, he had magically predicted it correctly! Kind of like Jeopardy but with a turban. Funny stuff... I miss Mr. Carson.

I thought I'd take a stab as Carnac the [not so] Magnificent by making some predictions of my own for the coming year. I'm toying with some POWERFUL forces here so don't be surprised to witness a glow rising from the page as you read on. I'll check back in a year from now to see how I did.

A: Their 4th

Q: With their Super Bowl victory this year, how many does that make for Green Bay Packers?

A: Fat

Q: The chance of growing back a full head of hair by year's end.

A: Zilch

Q: The amount of cash I'll win from playing Powerball this year?

A: Thirteen

Q: With more practice, what can I realistically lower my golf handicap to for 2011?

A: 24/7

Q: How much practice time are we talkin'?

A: The good, the bad, and the ugly

Q: How would I describe business for the years 2006, 2009, 2010?

A: Nothing but green lights!

Q: What can Paw Print & Mail and Catamount Marketing expect for 2011?

A: Hope and a prayer

Q: What does the UVM men's hockey team need right about now?

A: Ya sure... the odds of winning Powerball are looking better!

Q: This is the year work resumes on the Southern Connector.

A: Howard Stern

Q: Which famous radio celeb has Sirius Radio approached me to replace after catching me on WVMT's Charlie, Ernie, and Lisa early morning show?

A: Just another day in paradise

Q: With construction finally over at our new digs, how will living on the lake play out for 2011?

May the Genie in your lamp bust out like Rambo and grant your wishes for 2011!
